Dear CR, I read your scenario about after you made love to your fiancé you gave her the perception of how good she was at seducing you. What kind of perception could a person give to a women if he hasn't made love to her yet. My neighbor is hot, 20yrs.old. I have been out of the dating game for a long time. I don't know if your info will help me or not, but I will keep an open mind. I still look fairly good for middle age, I keep in great shape, but am starting to go bald like really bad. I need all the help and advantages I can get.

Thanks,

Hey “Bob”

Great question.

Seducing a female partner - or getting a new woman to like you - or getting back together with an ex...

It's all the same.

Basically the higher goal is to change the way she sees you...

The main purpose of getting my fiancé to feel that way (that she is great at seducing me) is people in general want to be perceived a certain way...

I know my fiancé wants to be perceived as someone who is sexy, someone who makes her man happy, and someone who is great at things... So that little technique sells into her already-existing desires...

If you want to use a parallel strategy to that technique. Then think about all of the ways the 20 year old girl wants to be perceived.

That's the first step.

And you can use a combination of Desired Perceptions that all women have and Desired Perceptions that are unique to her.

Ok.

So what are some of the Desired Perceptions that all women have?

For now, let's just keep it simple. Let's just look at basics.

1. Women want to be perceived as someone who makes the right decisions.

And the reason why you are going to focus of this particular aspect (or this particular way she wants to be perceived) is because it drives her decision making process.

In general, they want to do the right thing. They want to know that they are making the right decisions. Men are like this too, but women tend to obsess over this. That's why it takes them forever to make up their minds (collectively).

That's why (collectively) they are very attracted and magnetized to a man with confidence (i.e. a man who sends the signal that he is certain about things)

2. They want to be perceived as sexy and womanly.

If you look at magazines geared towards women, you will see that most of them appeal to their desire to be sexy (fitness tips, beauty tips, sexual tips, etc.) and/or her desire to associate with womanly activities (crafting, gardening, cooking, etc.). Women want to be defined as women.

Not all women are perfect 10 super models. So you can always admire something womanly about her and then associate that with sexiness.

Examples:

"There's something sexy about a woman who plants seeds into the earth with her bare hands."

"There's something sexy about a woman who reads books about enhancing her spirituality."

"There's something sexy about a woman who is able to juggle a full time job and take care of her kids."

Women are proud of what they do. And people love for others to acknowledge the things that they are proud of...

And saying those things can not be argued so she accepts it and ends up feeling sexy. On the other hand trying to get her to feel sexy about herself by saying something like “You are the sexier than a Perfect 10 Super Model!” may not work for all women.

But at this point you are just identifying. There’s really no need to communicate how her womanly passion is sexy – at this time.

How can you determine the Desired Perceptions of the specific woman you are talking to?

1. As you talk to her, you can listen for ego-type comments and make a mental note. This is along the same lines as the previous example except it’s not limited to things associated with her womanliness.

If you’re not sure how to do that, then check out The Ego Reflect System - which is a systematic way of secretly extracting the “ways she wants to be perceived” from her own conversation.

Note: It also shows you how to use it as a means of talking endlessly with her - so it’s great for guys who find themselves in conversations with women and not knowing what to say next - that’s what it was designed to do.

After you know and understand, how she wants to be perceived (as being a good decision maker, as being a sexy woman, and specific things that she reveals – i.e. she’s well liked by everyone, she’s smart, she’s mysterious & unpredictable, she’s creative, she’s intelligent & beautiful, she’s unique, she’s down to earth & real, she’s stylish & cool, she’s fun to be around, etc.) then you can strategically link those things to your desirability (or sexual desirability).

And it’s easy to do.

It may seem like a stretch, so let’s break it down in steps.

In the case with the 20 year old girl, I would think about the possible objections she would have.

And the first one could be age difference... So if it appears that she has an issue with age, then you strategically change the way she feels about that.

And you would change the way she feels about all identified (or possible) objections.

Here’s exactly how to do it... (once the objection is identified)

In conversations with her you are going to sneak in how you believe she is the “type of woman who thinks for herself” and then leave it at that...

Do not say something obvious like how you believe she is the type of woman who would sleep with her 55 year old neighbor named Bob.

You take a Profile Building approach.

“You are the type of woman who thinks for herself”

“You seem like the type of girl who enjoys new experiences (and you can use non-sexual examples that you extracted from her own words)”

Do you see how it works? You are basically destroying possible objections in a setting where you are complimenting her.

Your goal: is to create a painting in her mind that illustrates you as being sexually desirable – except you are going to give her pieces of the painting in bite size chunks over a period of time – until the full painting develops in her mind. Your goal is not to see how fast you can give her the whole painting. That would be like walking up to a woman as saying: I want you to perceive me as sexually desirable right now! (or even trying to send the message indirectly within 10 seconds)*

Now let's dig a little deeper to examine what's secretly going on when you do this. By the way, you can read all of the persuasion books in the universe. None of them are going to explain this simple way of persuading (or motivating) people that I am about to get to.

And I mentioned it a few times (but never fully explained it).

And that is focusing on how the person wants to be perceived.

So when you do your Profile Building (and do not remember this name, because there is an easier – more memorable – more usable way of putting it that I will get to later) by saying something like “You are the type of woman who thinks for herself” (along with some other basic revealed observations) you are pre-destroying the future objection of “what will my friends think about me dating an older guy”

This is brilliant by the way!

“CR, you are not allowed to say it's brilliant. That would be bragging!”

Listen up and follow what's going on so that you can clearly see what's happening...

Because when woman are normally exposed to her circle of friends saying “I can't believe you are thinking dating an older man” the woman will often times cut off the relationship – even if she enjoyed his company...

This happens all of the time.

Why does it happen?

It's simple. She was inspired (by her friends) to accept the perception that says "I am a woman who doesn't date older men" and because dating older men was framed as a bad thing or a bad decision... then it will appear like a good decision to not date older men. It's logic. (and essentially, the older guy's sexual value was decreased by the influence of the group of friends)

Women are more logical than we give them credit for by the way...

So when you hit her with the pieces of the painting (little by little) you are destroying the objection(s) while it's a non issue – because it hasn't been brought to the surface – meaning you are destroying it when it has no power.

Would you rather fight a new-born lion or a full grown lion?

My guess is that you would pick the baby lion. And that it would be no contest. That's the point.

That is why you want to get her to accept the observation about her (and don't worry she will).

Because you are saying implicitly (indirectly) that it is better to be someone who thinks for herself than someone who doesn't think for herself.

Are you following me so far?

So later on, when/if her friends try to inspire her to accept the perception of "someone who doesn't date older men", it is not perceived the same way!

You are pre-destroying that frame (or the future frame that says "it's not a good decision to date older men")

It's like breaking into Walmart in the middle of the night (when they are closed) and going to the section that sells picture frames. And then putting all of the picture frames that have a sticker at the top that reads "It's not a good decision to date older men" into a big pile. And then taking a hammer and destroying all of these frames and putting them back on the shelf. And then leaving the Walmart (while wearing a ninja outfit). So that when she goes shopping there in the future, no one on the planet Earth will have the ability to sell her these damaged frames.

These friends are now seen as a group of people who are trying to rob her of a special way she likes to be perceived (someone who thinks for herself)...

...the baby lion was killed – and he never grew up to be a big bad lion that kills.

...the frame no longer has value.

By the way, this is super easy to do so you show be smiling right about now.

So if you understand what's going on and you are smiling, I want you to stop smiling – because we are about to get to the good stuff!

Just keep in mind that all of this is powerful because you are directly targeting what matters more than anything in the universe (and neighboring universes) and that is how she wants to be perceived.

And it's testable. And it holds up.

So while everyone is giving you the rules about how things work in this regard, just quietly keep this in mind and you'll be 1000 times more effective than they can imagine themselves being once you begin to operate with this focus.

Think about arguments. Have you ever been more logical in an argument with a woman and she still doesn't see things your way? I know I have.

So how can anything supersede logic?

Because "logic" is on a lower order when it comes to getting someone to see things your way.

Somewhere along the lines you indirectly communicated that her accepting your views leads to her seeing herself as dumb (or some other way she doesn't want to be perceived) which is going to lead her to either speaking illogically (in a desperate attempt to preserve her perception) OR it will lead to her talking about her feelings (with a surrendering message that silently says 'Let's forget about this argument, I want you to consider how I want to be perceived')...

In the future (with arguments and with the method that I am about to explain) focus on creating two perceptions in her brain – a good one – and a bad one.

And then give her an opportunity to pick one.

Bonus: You can also give her a choice of two perceptions in her brain – a good one – and a really good. And then let her pick. Just understand that the timing and specific game plan has to support that.

And if you want you can be a super asshole during the argument – which is a surefire way of not winning any argument with anyone – and you'll still see success.

But focus on the two perceptions, that's what's really important.

In fact let's actually demonstrate this:

Here is an email I received from a female subscriber who is responding to my recommendation of cult control ( www.sexualvalue.com/cultbonus.html ). I sent out an email (if you are reading this, you probably know exactly the email I am talking about).

In general, I try to be helpful and compassionate to anyone I meet. But I do have a low tolerance for people who lash out (over emotionally) without having all the facts.

that is completely up to you...ok?

women DO respond to authority (everyone does)...

and women do respond favorably to a guy that makes them feel good. and yes i have a superior mind.. i am a super human. i am the all knowing!

who would have guessed that a girl with the email address zena princess would have feminine insecurity issues...

how inferior some men must really feel deep down to have to keep manipulating women to get what they want!)

You bet women DO respond to authority...

That's the problem your helping guys to hurt them.
it isn't completely up to women if you teach the men this stuff, like it's just a game to seduce women, even if it works!
You're still helping to manipulate!

This isn't honesty, when you teach guys a script to get what they want.
Sure i'm insecure, everyone is deep down, unless, of course, they're the "all knowing, super human guy with the superior mind and God complex!

Women certainly will respond, when they find out the guy they thought was genuine is just another fake, who's not secure enough to be himself and wait for her trust!

What the world needs more people like you out there teaching creeps how to win our trust!

I guess you must be so proud of yourself!

let me first start by saying in the beginning of your emails, i was hoping and i was mildly horny by the idea that you were on a path of making sense and presenting a logical & sensible argument...

both of my testicles were simultaneously tingly..

the birds outside were singing better songs...

the rain instantly stopped...

the cat finally caught the mouse...

now i see that this is a walk in the park. (sssshhh, don't tell anyone but i'm actually typing this email in my sleep with both hands behind my back)

listen my dear... don't tell anyone this also. but i respect women. i respect men. i have compassion for God's creatures blah blah blah...

most intelligent women that either read my book (superhappyssex.com) and understand what i'm saying know (instantly in some cases) that i don't embrace manipulation - not only because i think it's wrong (personally), but i think it's ineffective...

in other words: you missed the point!

you thought you had it all figured out... you emailed me with the energy of a pissed off 3 year old who's throwing her out-dated barbie dolls out the window...

all you gotta do is show a little respect. make sure you know completely what you are talking about before you start yapping complete nonsense and i'll treat you with a little respect and we can engage in an intelligent conversation...

if you have any intelligent observations about your personal experiences with men or relationships, i'll learn from you.

we'll laugh together. we'll drink tea together. i'll chase you on the beach and throw sand at you. we'll take silly pictures together in those little booths in the mall. i'll tease you are being an aol user. and how 90% of aol users have never been on the real internet. we'll share a 40 of colt 45 and watch boyz in the hood together...

but when you act like a crying "attention-starved" 13 year old it makes things difficult...

the birds sing off-key...

the house cat forgets how to purr...

the moon accuses the sun of being a racist...

everything just doesn't go right...

put this at the top of your "things you will never forget" list:

"cr james's sperm glows in the dark and has been recently appraised at $70,000 an ounce. and if i figure out what is really going on before i open my big mouth, i might actually trick people into having an intelligent conversation with me."

take care...

ZIP File Seduction

Okay, i get it, you don't manipulate women, you respect them, I believe you!

When i started reading the e-mails about your e-book all i could think was that you were amazing, having that much insight into women for real!

Seriously, I was completely impressed, so please except my apology.

Actually, I'll admit it, you were right on the mark about my behaviour to you too!

I wasn't talking about my personal experiences with men either, so I guess you are the expert here and you just got my respect, so i guess that shows me you do know what you're talking about.

The last e-mail about your e-book actually she's referring to [www.sexualvalue.com/cultbonus.html which is not my e-book] got me mad, and i don't exactly know why.

The only thing i can think of was that i have 3 daughters and I'm protective of them and i started thinking about the new generation of men.

Then I thought, from my experiences, only of meeting them and seeing the kind of men they are, if you can possibly call them men, that your information could be used by them to manipulate.

Right now, it's been hard enough to weed out the assholes from the genuine article, but i was just thinking that your info. could give them an edge.

They could just get enough from it to con their way into my daughter('s) hearts, then it's too late when the girls realize they're dealing with a real creap!

I have been fooled by these guys and i thought i was a pretty good judge of character, i just don't want the creeps to have an even better chance of getting past their radar or mine, they're still young.

Again, i really didn't mean to "attack you," because i do realize that at that moment i was putting you in the same catagory as their past boyfriends, okay, and I guess I was just in "one of those moods yesterday!"

Obviously, you mean to enlighten men in general and what you say and the way you write is awesome. I was, and am impressed.

p.s. my girls picked the zenaprincess name, not me!

I am capable of an intelligent conversation.

Once in awhile!

(forgiven?)

Let's continue...

So you are going to build a profile...

For example - how she seems to be the type to make up her mind regardless of what others are thinking, and how she seems to be adventurous, and how she seems to be this, and how she seems to be that - you get the point...

Quick Tip: Telling a woman that she “SEEMS” to be the type of woman who is blah blah blah is like having her sign a contract that says “I promise to live up to this in the future”.

And make sure you strategically pick things (your observations about her) that work in your favor – and things that destroy potential future objections. (i.e. age difference)

And it's more effective when you make your “observation about her” in direct alignment with something that she has actually said...

In conversations with women you'll noticed things they say that reveal how they want to be perceived or what makes them great. (This is cool because it's makes your job super easy)

So if she says "yesterday, I DECIDED to blah blah blah" then you can compliment her on her “decision making”... and then seamlessly flow into how she thinks for herself and how she makes decisions regardless of what others think...

And to make it more powerful, you can talk negatively about women who make decisions opposite to the one you are assigning to her, and then mention how she has the perception which gives it greater value.

For example you would go on rant about how you can't stand people who can't think for themselves. You could talk about how your ex-girlfriend (as she is being framed as a reject) made all of her decisions based on what other people thought.

And then you say something like: “You seem like the type of girl who thinks for herself. I think that's cool. It seems to be pretty rare these days...”

Notice how you can stack signals at this point – For example: You are basically saying that it is rare to be a woman who thinks for herself. So you end up adding value to the observation because not only is it good to think for yourself - not that many girls do this.)

More examples:

"You seem like the type of girl who is adventurous. I think that's cool. It seems to be pretty rare these days..."

"You seem like the type of girl who is open-minded. I think that's cool. It seems to be pretty rare these days..."

Again the structure is:

My ex-girlfriend wasn't a fun girl.
You're a fun girl.
Fun girls are hard to find.

Funny Observation of the Month: You'll notice (or have already noticed) that women – at some point in the conversation -- will talk about how great/special she is OR how non-great/non-special another woman/man is...

So what that means is all you have to do is wait for the special talk or non-special talk and then attach the observation:

Her: Blah Blah Blah I'm a great bowler.
You: That means you are a fun girl. Fun girls are rare.

Her: Blah Blah Blah Mary is not a great bowler.
You: That means she is not a fun girl. My ex was not a fun girl. I do not like girls who are not fun girls. You seem like a fun girl. Fun girls are rare.

~~~~~ @ ~~~~~

Her: Blah Blah Blah I tried the new Japanese-Mexican Fruit Pizza at Pizza World last night.
You: That means you are a woman who tries new things. Women who try new things are rare.

Her: Blah Blah Blah Sue refused to try the new Japanese-Mexican Fruit Pizza at Pizza World last night.
You: That means she is not a woman who tries new things. My grandmother is the same way. You seem a woman who tries new things. Women who try new things are rare.

Do you see how it works?

Your presentation of the negatively discussed woman that you know (or a type of woman) will clearly suggest to her that it is undesirable to be this way.

It's seductively powerful because you keep your intentions pure – instead of being a manipulative jerk or asshole, you end up inspiring her with great feelings about herself (in a sexual value building way) as you meet her unconscious and conscious desires...

And since most women are hardwired to accept positive, ego-boosting messages it is difficult to not succeed in doing that as the first step...

And then the full definition later unravels in her mind!

Let me explain...(because I want this to be super easy to understand)

And plus we're getting to the good stuff...

It's kind of like uploading a zip file directly to her brain that is titled:

 “Lisa-is-fun-because-she-isn’t-afraid-to-try-new-things.zip”

And shortly after it has been uploaded, the zip file opens up in her brain...(and there are several folders in there)

And those folders are titled

-  That-means-she’ll-try-new-types-of-foods
-  That-means-she’ll-try-new-types-of-men (and inside that folder there are more folders)
  -  That means-she’ll-date-a-shorter-guy-if-she-hasn’t-tried-that
  -  That means-she’ll-date-an-Asian-guy-if-she-hasn’t-tried-that
  -  That means-she’ll-date-an-older-guy-if-she-hasn’t-tried-that (inside that folder)
    -  Text file: Bob from work is an older guy
    -  Text file: Richard is an older guy
    -  Text file: Jim is an older guy

See how it works...

Except you are going to upload several zip files      (that she’ll happily accept) and whenever it’s necessary, you are going to access (by conversational double-clicking) all of the folders that matter (i.e. the ones about you and the ones that describe you as sexually desirable)

This is very slick so pay attention... (In fact scroll up and take another look at the title of the zip file that is in red. That’s an example of something that she’ll happily accept)

Let me illustrate clearly how it works...

Real case scenario:

In the case with my fiancé, the zip file (i.e. a strategically easy to accept belief) that I uploaded to her brain was “She-is-good-at-seducing-men.zip” which contains the folder “that-means-I-can-seduce-men-with-ease” and that folder contains the text file “I can seduce CR James with ease”

So as soon as I upload my zip file, I don’t expect an instant sexual attack or a sexual response at all. (I’m giving her the painting in pieces)

Instead I would wait maybe an hour and then mention something that makes all of the necessary folders open up inside her brain...

I call it Conversational Double-Clicking.

For example (You talking to her - as you are watching TV with her) – “Look at the girl on that reality show, she’s trying to seduce that guy, but she’s doesn’t have a clue how to do it.”

And at that moment in time, she’ll selfishly and naturally look at herself in context with your comment – and then all of the necessary folders will open until you are left with all of the necessary text files:

Which could be: (depending on which Zip Files you uploaded)

I am good at seducing guys.txt

I am comfortable when I am alone with Richard.txt

I am the type of girl that gives blow jobs during the commercials.txt

Advanced SSP Users: You can focus on uploading a group of zip files that all end up having the same txt file (same message/signal) so that you end up having different groups of zip files. For example you could upload 4 different zip files that all contain the message (I am good at seducing guys.txt) which gives you a multi-dimensional, more dynamic, more saturated approach.

A few minutes later you could say: “This girl at work is trying to get this guy’s attention, but she doesn’t know what to do...”

An hour later: “Remember that girl that was trying to seduce that guy on that reality show, do you think she looks like your friend Mary?” (All you really want is her to think about the girl that couldn’t seduce the guy)

Do you see what’s happening?

You are stimulating the specific zip file! (over and over again)

Let’s now talk about what is really happening?

...so every few minutes or hours you are basically getting her to say to herself that she is going at seducing you. (or whatever signal/textfile is in your Zip File) because logically it is the sub-belief (sub folder) of the parent belief (main folder) “I-am-good-at-seducing-men”...

Make sure you really understand and see what is happening because once you do you have no choice but see how effective it will be when you start actually using it – and how easy it is - even before you actually do it.

I can talk about what is really happening, but I think it’s best to illustrate it...

Imagine walking around with a portable mouse...

And every time you secretly double-clicked it, she said:

I am good at seducing Charles
I am good at seducing Charles
I am good at seducing Charles

And every time you secretly double-clicked it, she said:

There is nothing wrong with dating older men.
There is nothing wrong with dating older men.
There is nothing wrong with dating older men.

And every time you secretly double-clicked it, she said:

I love performing oral.
I love performing oral.
I love performing oral.

And every time you secretly double-clicked it, she said:

Tim turns me on like crazy.
Tim turns me on like crazy.
Tim turns me on like crazy.

Always remember the characteristics of the Zip File: It's structured as an easily acceptable compliment. And you know that humans want to feel as though they are great and special. So operationally, they tend to not reject comments that suggest that... She has to accept the zip file. She has to accept the zip file. She has to accept the zip file. LOL!

Here is another cool thing.

We tend to act differently around our parents, our friends, our co-workers, etc...

Why?

Because we have sub personalities. We almost become different people around different people...

So listen up...

With this consistent use of this process you are going to end up engineering a new sub-personality within her.

Chances are you have done this to a female before on some level. And know there is nothing wrong with doing this, because the sub-personality (or persona) that she becomes while in your presence is one where she feels good about herself.

If you are able to see the big picture, you'll realize that you don't have to use it for achieving sexual desirability. You can use it to change a negative perception of you. You can use it to gain trust from a woman who isn't too trusting.

I could go on and on about this, but I won't. All I'm going to say is there is nothing wrong with being a quality guy that inspires her to feel great about herself. And there is nothing wrong with doing things to put her in a more sexual mindset.

This is something wrong with making her feel like she's worthless. This is something wrong with pressuring her into having sex – when she doesn't see you as desirable.

Many guys are black belt masters at this.

But the valuable part about that is this new sub-personality is defined by a set of highly predictable actions...

Let me know if all of this makes sense my friend... If it does, get started immediately and let me know how it goes.

But before I go, let me give you some Action Steps (per Zip File)

Step 1 – Think about what your “text files” are going to be

...which are all of the signals you want to send. It would be very wise to review Lust Signals lustsignals.com if you have a copy (files: LS-1.pdf LS-2.pdf LS-3.pdf LS-4.pdf)

Step 2 – Associate all of the text files with the type of woman that would actually do this (and make sure this type of woman is bigger than the possible objections)

Step 3 – Build your Zip File Chart (page 14)

Step 4 – Think of what you are going to say to her

Step 5 – Think of when (the scenario) you are going to say it to her

Step 6 – Say it to her

Step 7 – Make references to it repeatedly (conversationally double-clicking)

Step 8 – Observe the results (i.e. the woman talks about her great seduction skills, or the woman no longer has a problem with older men, etc.)

ZIP File Seduction

That's it my friend...

Take care...

Warmly
